

Written by Kaylee Smith

Edited by: Jaydlynn Auckerman

I competed in the state veterinary science competition on April 19th, 2023. Upon arriving I was sorted into 2 groups. The group I was in started with the clinical portion of the contest. For this, I had to show how to put on an E-collar, fill a syringe to 10ml, and then I had to write a prescription label based on a scenario. Once my group was done we moved on to the second part of the contest. For this, I had to identify the objects lying on the table. I had to identify different types of equipment, parasites, and species. After this, the competition was over and the only thing left to do was wait for the results.

